About Quanton

Quanton helps leaders find where AI and automation will make a real difference, then builds it and gets their people using it. We started in 2016 with New Zealand's first intelligent automation programme, and have since delivered for banks, telcos, energy companies, insurers, health and government organisations in New Zealand and Australia.

We're technology-agnostic and people-first: we start with the business problem, use the platforms that fit (often ones clients already own), and leave teams able to run and grow what we build.

AI services

AI strategy and roadmap
Find where AI will pay off and build a costed, board-ready plan.

AI readiness and governance
Policy, guardrails and risk controls so AI is used safely.

AI enablement
Executive and team programmes that build real AI capability.

Document AI and AP automation
Capture, check and route invoices and documents with AI.

RPA and intelligent automation
Software robots and AI that take on repetitive, rules-based work.

Operations services

Process improvement
Redesign how work flows before automating it.

Digital and business transformation
Align strategy, process, people, data and technology.

Data and analytics
Data foundations and reporting leaders can trust.

Automation support
Monitoring, fixes and improvements for live automations.

Crystal Knows and DISC
AI personality insights for better client and team conversations.

How we work

Our QLOAD® approach looks at strategy, operating model, process, data, people and technology together, so investment goes where it pays back first.

1. Find
Map where the hours, costs and risks sit, and which moves pay back first.

2. Build
Design and deliver the right fix: process, automation, AI or data, on the right platform.

3. Embed
Train and support your people so the change sticks, then keep improving it.
